President's Message

As we close what has been a very interesting and challenging year, I must thank the ICAC Board of Directors, member institutes, our affiliates and the CEO and her staff for their support and uncomplaining effort throughout the year.

Regional Initiatives Update

One of our most important initiatives, the regional practice monitoring programme, will soon be entering another phase and arrangements are in place to facilitate this. All of our member institutes whose contracts expire at the end of 2014, have now signed one year extensions with the Association of Certified Chartered Accountants (ACCA) so that when the new cycle of monitoring commences in January 2016, all of our member institutes will be on the same footing.

The ICAC initiated and completed the process of inviting proposals for the provision of monitoring services from January 1, 2016 as all contracts and extensions terminate on December 31, 2015. Interest was initially expressed by the Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales (ICAEW), The Association of Certified Chartered Accountants (ACCA), and the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA). Assistance was sought from the Caribbean Development Bank (CDB) to ensure that the process reflected best practice and was fair to all concerned. After its initial interest, the AICPA withdrew from the process and proposals were received from ACCA and ICAEW. The practice monitoring committee is well into its review of the proposals received and it is expected that the awardee will be announced shortly so that the arrangements for a smooth transition can be completed.

The ICAC will also continue to explore the delivery of services to members by way of the establishment of a regional monitoring unit at some time in the future.

During the year, we continued our interaction with the World Bank (WB) concerning the completion of a Caribbean Report on Standards and Codes (ROSC). Our progress in this regard, has been slower than expected but we are highly optimistic that the report will be completed and submitted by the deadline set by the WB. It is hoped that the ROSC will assist the ICAC to access funds from the WB and/or other interested parties towards the strengthening of the Institute and some of our member institutes.

One of the concerns identified during the year was the relative absence of the profession from attempts at finding solutions to the economic challenges within the region. In my address at the annual accounting and finance conference hosted by the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Trinidad and Tobago (ICATT) in October, I urged regional solutions to these challenges. The continued slide of the world market price of oil and the likely disastrous consequences on all our economies should have brought home to all, the importance of not only a regional approach to identifying solutions, but also the need to use all the region's resources in so doing. We, as chartered accountants, are not doing enough to ensure that we are invited to sit at the table and I challenge all member institutes to ramp up their advocacy efforts to ensure that this happens. We are responsible for impressing upon our governments the quality of experience and competence that has remained untapped within the profession.

In 2015, you will hear more about several initiatives that are now in their formative stages.

Annual Conference

On June 5-7, 2014, the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Suriname hosted a highly successful conference. The budgeted performance was easily surpassed with just under 400 conference participants, as opposed to the 225 initially suggested. In fact, the conference exceeded expectations in every respect. This was achieved by a high level of cooperation between the SUVA Conference Planning Committee and the ICAC Secretariat, which was extensively involved in the conference planning process in accordance with a mandate from the board of directors. There was also significant input by David Simpson, past president of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Barbados (ICAB) and Andrew Brathwaite, a director of ICAB and a member of the ICAC Board. Because of the importance of the conference to the ICAC's annual budget, I, once again, express the gratitude of the Board to all those who contributed to its success.

As a result of our concerns for the conference during the planning phases, Belize agreed to defer the hosting of the 2015 conference, for which the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Trinidad & Tobago has assumed the role of host. Once again, we ask for your support for this, the 33rd edition of the premier accounting conference in the English-speaking Caribbean.

Operational Matters

A proposed increase in the annual membership subscription has been put on hold pending the deliberations and recommendations of a Finance Committee that was constituted for the purpose of reviewing the ICAC's financing arrangements, and making recommendations to the Board. Meetings of that Committee have already commenced and we expect that a report will shortly be forwarded to the Secretariat.

During 2013 and 2014, the ICAC's regional committees were reconstituted and I am happy to report that meetings have commenced in all cases. We expect that reports will be tabled for the Board's consideration when it meets in Trinidad & Tobago in February 2015.

Regional & International Contribution

On October 14 - 15, 2014, I attended the ICATT annual conference and delivered greetings on behalf of the ICAC. The theme of the conference was, Agents of Change, Shaping the Future, and featured a very interesting mix of speakers and topics. The conference was of a very high standard and I was, in a sense, re-invigorated at the prospect of all there is to be achieved in the regional profession.

I also represented ICAC at the ordinary meeting of the IFAC Council in Rome, Italy on November 7, 2014. There were also several other meetings at which I represented the ICAC and interacted with key decision-makers from IFAC and professional accounting organisations from across the globe. I also represented the ICAC at an important global conference hosted by the World Bank prior to the World Congress of Accountants. Details of these meetings held in Rome are reported separately in this newsletter.

While in Rome, I took the opportunity to attend the 2014 World Congress of Accountants, and I would recommend that every chartered accountant attend this global event at least once in their professional life. I can guarantee that you will be inspired being in the presence of approximately 5,000 fellow professionals and interacting with global leaders as they offer their experiences and solutions to the myriad of challenges faced by our profession in an environment where change is the only constant. The benefits far outweigh the costs of attending this global conference. The next congress, the 20th, is scheduled for Sydney, Australia in 2018 and I invite you to make plans to be there. I also look forward to meeting you in large numbers in Port of Spain, Trinidad & Tobago in June 2015 for the ICAC's 33rd Annual Conference of Accountants.

Let me close by wishing you and your families a Merry Christmas and all that is good in the New Year. I look forward to your continued support in 2015.

ICAC Participates In IFAC Council Meeting Held In Rome

The ICAC was represented by President Frank V. Myers at the Ordinary Council Meeting of the International Federation of Accountants (IFAC) which was held on November 7, 2014 at the Westin Excelsior Hotel in Rome, Italy. The meeting was hosted by the Consiglio Nazionale dei Dottori Commercialisti e degli Esperti Contabili (CNDCEC).

At the meeting, the IFAC Council announced the election of its new President, Olivia Kirtley of the United States and Deputy President, Rachel Grimes of Australia. Ms. Kirtley is the first female President of IFAC. The IFAC Council also elected five new members to the IFAC Board: Raphael Ding (Hong Kong), Richard Petty (Australia), Kumar Raghu (India), Shinji Someha (Japan), and Joy Thomas (Canada). The IFAC Council also re-elected Ahmadi Hadibroto (Indonesia) and Masum Turker (Turkey).

Three professional accounting organisations were admitted to membership by the IFAC Council - the Association of National Accountants of Nigeria (ANAN), the Institute of Certified Management Accountants of Sri Lanka (CMASL), and the Dutch Institute of Management Accountants (VRC). Also admitted as associates of IFAC, were Non Profit Audit Association "Sodruzhestvo" of Russia (NP-AAS), Indonesian Institute of Public Accountants (IAPI), and Chamber of Authorized Auditors of the Republic of Serbia (KoR).

Mr. Myers expressed the view that it is very important that the ICAC be represented at such gatherings of decision-makers within the accountancy profession, as it ensures that the ICAC is kept apprised of developments globally and that these are incorporated into the Institute's strategic plans, where feasible. He added that these fora provide opportunities for networking and the sharing of experiences and challenges that benefit organisations such as the ICAC.

Framing the Future of the Accountancy Profession: Focus of World Bank 2014 Global Conference

Developing countries, with the help of the World Bank, have been working to build robust economies with effective systems of governance. This must be underpinned by essential pillars including strong financial reporting systems with sound national accounting and auditing frameworks, adequate requirements, well-trained practitioners and effective mechanisms to ensure compliance.

Through its Governance Global Practice, the World Bank has joined with the accountancy profession to advance this important agenda. Against this background, the second staging of the World Bank's Accountancy Development for Results Global Conference was held in Rome, Italy on November 10, 2014 under the theme Accountancy: Framing the Future.

The event provided a forum for discussion on how professional accountancy bodies in developing countries can work in partnership to strengthen national professions and to enhance their role in improving public accountability, transparency and the climate for investment. The four key topics covered at the conference were:

- The profession's role in improving public oversight;
- Developing people and improving skills;
- Getting the most out of information technology;
- Contributing to modern public financial management.

Speakers during the opening session of the conference included Mrs. Samia Msadek, Practice Director – Governance, World Bank Group; and Mr. Fayez Choudhury, Chief Executive Officer, International Federation of Accountants (IFAC).

Frank V. Myers, ICAC President, was also a presenter/panelist at the event for the break-out session on Developing People and improving skills that will focus on technician qualification during which panellists shared experiences and proposed practical reforms that national and regional professional accountancy organizations (PAOs) can implement to accelerate the development of more technician accountants required to serve in both public and private sectors.

The conference closed with a panel discussion titled, Looking Forward: Working Together to Promote Accountancy Development and Achieve Sustainable Results, which summarized the key action points from the break-out discussions. Participants also discussed how PAOs and the World Bank can cooperate in the months and years to come to address the four priority areas and help the profession in the developing world to thrive and make a decisive contribution to economic development and shared prosperity.

Presenters/panelists for the break-out session on "Developing People and improving skills that will focus on technician qualification" (from L-R) Azim Omar, Senior Executive, South African Institute of Chartered Accountants; Margaret Unubun, CEO, Association of Accountancy Bodies in West Africa (ABWA); Frank Myers, President, Institute of Chartered Accountants of Caribbean (ICAC); Mark Farrah, CEO of AAT UK and Patrick Kabuya, Senior Financial Management Specialist Governance, World Bank (Moderator).

ICAC Participates In IASB World Standard-Setters Meeting

Representatives from standard-setters in over 60 countries gathered in London on September 29 and 30, 2014 for the International Accounting Standards Board (IASB) annual meeting of world standard-setters. The ICAC was represented at the meeting by Andrew Brathwaite, Director on the ICAC Board, and Chair of the ICAC's Regional Monitoring Sub-committee and Membership Committee. Mr. Brathwaite is also a member of the IFRS Foundation's SME Implementation Group.

The focus of the meeting was on recent developments in the setting and implementing of International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) and included a number of technical sessions covering emerging issues related to topics such as the conceptual framework project, the disclosure initiative and IFRS for SMEs. The sessions presented an opportunity to interact with IASB technical staff and raise questions or provide direct feedback.

The topics discussed during the technical sessions were:

- IFRS implementation updates;
- Disclosure initiative;
- IFRS 15 - Revenue from Contracts with Customers;
- IFRS 9 - Financial Instruments;
- Post-implementation review (PIR) of IFRS 3 - Business Combinations;

- IFRS adoption and translation issues.

The meeting included updates from groupings which have been formed to promote regional interests and streamline interaction with IASB. These included the International Forum of Accounting Standard Setters (IFASS), the Asian-Oceanic Standard-Setters Group (AOSSG), the European Financial Reporting Advisory Group (EFRAG), and the Pan African Federation of Accountants (PAFA).

Participants were also given an update on the IFRS Education Initiative which now includes comprehensive framework-based material for those teaching IFRS. This presents a further opportunity for the Caribbean to develop high quality local trainers and educators.

"Participation in the World Standard-Setters Meeting and similar conferences is one of the means by which Caribbean accountants can make direct input into the standard setting process, and ensure that our views and concerns are taken into consideration. In order to maximize the benefit, though, we must continue to look for creative ways of stimulating discussion on technical matters and getting feedback and comments from member bodies," notes Mr. Brathwaite.

ASSOCIATION OF CHARTERED CERTIFIED ACCOUNTANTS

Landmark MOU signed by ACCA and Colombian national accountancy body

The growth and development of the accountancy profession in Colombia has been bolstered by a Memorandum of Understanding signed between INCP (Instituto Nacional de Contadores Públicos de Colombia), Colombia's national accountancy body, and ACCA. Through the MOU, ACCA will provide support for the implementation of international financial reporting standards in Colombia, as well as training and certification through ACCA's online certificates and exams.

Research reveals multi-billion dollar promise of untapped Supply Chain Finance

Businesses are missing out on billions of dollars (US) by failing to tap into one of the least used methods of alternative finance, says new research published by global accountancy body ACCA and Aite Group. The research, launched at ACCA's 2nd Alternative Finance Conference, shows that suppliers of all sizes across the world could be missing out on between $60 billion and $120 billion by failing to exploit the potential of reverse factoring, through which businesses can finance themselves against the credit ratings of their major customers and achieve prompt payment in exchange for a discount.

Improving conditions supports growing business confidence in the Caribbean

Business confidence in the Caribbean grew in the second quarter, according to the largest regular economic survey of finance professionals around the world. The latest findings of the Global Economic Conditions Survey organised by ACCA and IMA showed 23% of respondents reporting confidence gains, up from 14% in the previous quarter, with 29% - 10 per cent less than the previous quarter -reporting a loss of confidence. The rise in business confidence has mostly been due to improving cash flow and demand, which became significantly stronger in the latest quarter. These are now at their healthiest in two years, while prices and exchange rates stabilised slightly and business opportunities remained buoyant after falling for nine consecutive months.

Organisations urged to reward those who question corporate culture

Corporate cultures that prevent employees from raising questions about perceived risks and threats to an organisation can only be changed if board members lead by example and become more sceptical and challenging, a report commissioned by and IMA has concluded. The report, A Risk Challenge Culture by Paul L. Walker, William G. Shenkir and Thomas L. Barton, looks at the need for organisations to develop and implement effective risk oversight in the wake of the 2008 financial crisis, which exposed serious weaknesses in risk management. The report says "Even some organisations that claim to have a robust risk governance structure have one in name only; the directors are not as actively engaged in risk oversight as they need to be. They oftentimes lack adequate training in risk issues and may receive unduly optimistic risk reporting. In the wake of a risk debacle, a typical question is, "Where was the board while this was happening?"

CHARTERED PROFESSIONAL ACCOUNTANTS OF CANADA

CGA-Canada officially joins CPA Canada

October 1, 2014 marked an historic chapter for the Canadian accounting profession with CGA-Canada officially joining CPA Canada, creating a single national organization. With a member-base of more than 190,000 professional accountants, CPA Canada is now one of the largest national accounting bodies in the world. That gives Canadian professional accountants a unified voice – one with tremendous influence both nationally and internationally.

CPA Program Delivery in the Caribbean

The new Canadian CPA certification programme draws on the best of the three legacy programmes and has been designed to serve the needs of industry, public practice, not-for-profit organizations, and government alike. The programme meets or exceeds all international standards for education, assessment, and practical experience, and satisfies the requirements of the leading global accounting bodies. The CPA certification process will ensure that at qualification, all new Canadian CPAs have the strong foundation of knowledge and skills required to succeed in whatever role or position they assume.

The CPA Professional Education Programme (CPA PEP) was launched in the Caribbean in September 2014 and is comprised of six modules – both core and elective, regular evaluations, and a practical-experience requirement. The programme is offered through a mix of self-study, online, and in-person sessions.

On Sept. 1, 2014, the new CPA Canada Practical Experience Requirements came into effect, providing the practical experience requirements for certification as a Chartered Professional Accountant (CPA). Requirements for the right to practice public accounting (or registration) are under consultation and will be released when finalized. Until that time, legacy requirements for the right to practice public accounting remain in effect and subject to the requirements of the local regulatory bodies.

While the CPA profession strives for regional consistency, local regulations and by-laws take precedence over CPA Canada's requirements. It will remain important to refer to the regulations in each jurisdiction for the specific requirements of each. To familiarize yourself with the requirements, visit cpacanada.ca/practicalexperience where you will find a suite of resources, including informative videos and fact sheets.

All legacy programmes have entered their final stage, with the CGA, CMA, and CA programmes concluding by September 2015. CPA Canada has provided a transition path for CA, CMA and CGA candidates who are unable to complete their studies by September 2015, with many students having begun their bridging into the CPA programme(s) already. For details on this, consult the CA, CGA or CMA legacy offices that support the Caribbean, or the CPA Caribbean website at www.cpacaribbean.ca for information.

20 Questions Directors of Not-for-Profit Organizations Should Ask About Social Enterprise

Social enterprise is a growing sector in Canada. Whether not-for-profit organizations (NPOs) are considering or are already running a social enterprise operation, new guidance from CPA Canada will help the organization and its directors address common issues and questions. The term social enterprise encompasses a wide range of meanings, from the organization or operation itself to an activity or programme within the entity. The basic requirement is that the organization, operation, activity or programme must have a socially beneficial purpose that is achieved through commercial or business-like activities.

The publication addresses the risk of tax compliance for NPOs that perform social enterprise activities, as well as the challenges that multiple objectives and stakeholders may have on the mission of a social enterprise. It also provides advice on measuring the success of social enterprises, the qualifications and skills desired in social enterprise board members, board training, as well as the pros and cons of having paid or volunteer staff. <http://www.cica.ca/focuson-practice-areas/governance-strategy-and-risk/notfor-profit-director-series/20-questions-series/item80225.pdf>

ICAC & ACCA Sign Contract For One-Year Extension Of Practice Monitoring In The Region

The Institute of Chartered Accountants of the Caribbean (ICAC) and the UK-based Association of Chartered Certified Accountants (ACCA) recently signed contracts for the extension of practice monitoring in Barbados, Guyana and Trinidad & Tobago.

The regional practice monitoring programme was initiated by the ICAC in partnership with ACCA in 2008. Under this programme, ACCA has been undertaking monitoring reviews of firms and practitioners within Barbados, Guyana, the Organisation of Eastern Caribbean States (OECS), Jamaica and Trinidad & Tobago.

The existing contracts for practice monitoring in Barbados, Guyana and Trinidad & Tobago are scheduled to expire at the end of 2014 and ACCA has agreed to continue the monitoring reviews for another year under the existing terms and conditions.

"The practice monitoring programme has been one of the ICAC's most successful undertakings and is aimed at ensuring effective quality assurance systems in the region. We welcome the commitment by ACCA to continue monitoring reviews in these territories as this will ensure there are no interruptions in the monitoring cycle and member bodies in these territories will be able to remain in compliance with the International Standards on Quality Control as promulgated by the International Federation of Accountants ("IFAC)," states ICAC President, Frank V. Myers.

"During the one year extension period, we expect to finalise the assessment of tenders for a service provider to undertake monitoring reviews within member territories in the Caribbean for a new contract period commencing January 1, 2016. Discussions are also being undertaken by the ICAC Board towards a regionally managed practice monitoring programme," Mr. Myers further said.

Sha Ali Khan, Director - Practice Monitoring, ACCA commented: "We are very pleased to have worked with the ICAC to establish a world class regional monitoring programme in the Caribbean. The programme's objective is to improve the standards of audit work, which is in the public interest. High standards of audit work improve the reliability of financial reporting, which in turn, enhances the reputation of the profession and is a key driver in promoting inward investment and confidence in Caribbean capital markets."

In March of this year, the ICAC issued formal requests for proposal for the new practice monitoring contract period which commences January 1, 2016.

Financial Due Diligence - Caught in the Middle: How Financial Managers Can Add Value to the Due Diligence Process

By Dan Chenoweth, MBA, CPA
Executive Education, Inc.

Financial managers are sometimes "caught in the middle" of a merger, acquisition or alliance (M/A/A). Suppose your management team has decided a potential M/A/A is a good strategic fit. It is now your turn to conduct financial due diligence to determine a reasonable market value. You must also project future combined results and track actual results against these projections after the company completes the deal.

As most business people know, many M/A/As fail to deliver expected results. However, most people don't know those shortcomings often stem from corporate culture clashes. Companies often fail to address such problems until after the merger takes place, often too late to salvage the M/A/A. When projections aren't met, blame often falls squarely on the financial manager's shoulders. It is our job to explain why the numbers aren't there!

"Culture clash" is usually an inherent aspect of the M/A/A process. The bottom line is simple: if the financial manager proactively assesses the risk cultural issues pose to the alliance's success and helps develop countermeasures, there will be a higher probability the alliance succeeds. Additionally, you will enhance the entire due diligence process and accounting's reputation.

Consider these issues during due diligence:

- What are both organization's cultures?
- How might a "culture clash" impact the deal?
- How can you assess corporate culture while simultaneously conducting financial due diligence?

No longer can a financial manager just look at a prospective M/A/A's financial information without at least laying the framework for discussing the more intangible cultural issues that can mean the difference between success or failure. By taking a more holistic approach you will add even more value to the due diligence process and further enhance your personal credibility.

IPSASB PUBLISHES PUBLIC SECTOR CONCEPTUAL FRAMEWORK

The International Public Sector Accounting Standards Board (IPSASB) has published its Conceptual Framework for General Purpose Financial Reporting by Public Sector Entities (the Conceptual Framework). The publication provides the IPSASB with the concepts that will underpin the development of International Public Sector Accounting Standards (IPSASs) and Recommended Practice Guidelines (RPGs) in the coming years. It enables the IPSASB to further improve the consistency of its standard-setting by strengthening the linkage between IPSASs. Additionally, the transparency of the concepts underpinning the development of IPSASs and RPGs enhances the IPSASB's accountability.

The primary objective of most public sector entities is to deliver services to the public, rather than to make profits and generate a return on equity to investors. The Conceptual Framework responds to key public sector characteristics in its approach to elements (the building blocks of financial statements), the measurement of assets and liabilities, and the presentation of financial reports, while focusing on service recipients' and resource providers' needs for high-quality financial reporting information for both accountability and decision-making purposes.

BAHAMAS INSTITUTE OF CHARTERED ACCOUNTANTS

Value Added Tax (VAT)

The Government of The Bahamas plans to implement VAT in January 2015. The Bahamas Institute of Chartered Accountants (BICA) continues to take an active role in the consultative process, having representatives on the VAT Advisory Committee, formerly known as The Central Revenue Agency Steering Committee. The Institute has also issued several statements in the press stating its position on VAT implementation. The Institute is careful, however, to always maintain a neutral stance concerning the new tax.

In its continued effort to educate the public on VAT in advance of its implementation, BICA held two seminars during the month of September. The Institute partnered with The Ministry of Finance's VAT Unit to host these two seminars, the first of which was held on September 18, 2014 at The Melia Nassau Beach Hotel. The attendees were educated on various VAT-related topics, including a VAT Overview and Consumer Education; VAT Accounting and Filing; Selective Overview of VAT Industry Guides; VAT Transitional Arrangements; and the VAT Registration Process. The presenters from the VAT Unit were led by Mr. John Rolle, Financial Secretary in The Ministry of Finance.

The second VAT seminar was held in Freeport, Grand Bahama on September 25, 2014. It covered a wide range of topics, including Revised VAT Legislation, VAT and The Hawksbill Creek Agreement, East/West Exemptions, 2014/2015 Governmental Budget, and Ethics & Corporate Governance.

With its impending implementation, the topic of VAT continues to generate national interest. To this end, the first day of BICA's Accountants' Week on November 11, 2014 was dedicated solely to VAT seminars, facilitated once again by The Ministry of Finance's VAT Unit.

Immediate Past President of BICA and Task Force co-chair. Members of the Task Force have been active in informing the broader business community about the October 13, 2014 registration launch and post-registration processes: compliance, audit and return practices.

MESICIC Meetings

BICA has been involved in a series of meetings regarding The Mechanism for Follow-up on the Implementation of The Inter-American Convention against Corruption (MESICIC), the most recent of which took place on September 26, 2014.

The Government of The Bahamas has signed two Conventions, which seek to promote and facilitate cooperation between Inter-American states, in order to fight corruption. The Bahamas became a party to the Inter-American Convention against Corruption in March 2000. The Convention establishes a set of preventive measures, which provides for the criminalization of certain acts of corruption, including transnational bribery and illicit enrichment, and contains provisions to improve tracing, seizure and forfeiture of property or proceeds which are obtained, derived or used in the commission of acts of corruption.

In order to promote the implementation of this Convention, the Organization of American States (OAS) established MESICIC. As a party to this Convention, one of the obligations of The Bahamas was to establish a task force with the responsibility for local oversight. BICA was represented on the Task Force by its President, Mrs. Darnell Osborne, who presented on BICA's Investigation and Discipline process, as well as the way deficiencies in its current legislation are being addressed in its new legislation.

The workshop was facilitated by representatives from The World Bank and was designed to familiarise participants with the risk assessment tool, as well as to facilitate brainstorming and discussion on money laundering and terrorism financing risks in The Bahamas. The Institute of Chartered Accountants of Trinidad & Tobago (ICATT) and the Accreditation Council of Trinidad and Tobago (ACTT) signed a Memorandum of Co-operation (MOC) on July 9, 2014. ICATT was represented by the Vice President, 2nd Vice President and the General Manager.

ACTT approached ICATT with a view to entering into a Memorandum of Co-operation to promote technical cooperation between the respective organisations in matters related to quality assurance, the recognition of qualifications, the approval of programmes, specialised accreditation and information sharing as it pertains to the higher education and professional sectors over which each party has jurisdiction.

The MOC also considers the potential mutual benefits to be derived from a collaborative approach to the assessment of international qualifications, as well as qualifications directly within each agency's jurisdiction in the pursuit of each party's sustainable development objectives. It seeks a commitment to facilitating the sharing of information, the training of personnel and the transfer of skills and expertise in related areas and to creating opportunities to achieve the objectives of the Memorandum of Cooperation.
